

ETHNIC STUDIES AND #BLACKLIVESMATTER, From Ferguson to Madison

A PANEL DISCUSSION WITH UW-MADISON FACULTY

Friday, April 10, 5:30-7:30 pm

Elvehjem Building, Room L160

UW-Madison faculty members will offer ethnic and indigenous studies perspectives on the Black Lives Matter movement and the issues surrounding it, from policing to racial inequities. A discussion with the audience will follow. This event is free and open to the public.

SPEAKERS:

Michael Thornton
Afro-American Studies

Karma R. Chávez
Communication Arts, Chican@ and Latin@ Studies

Pamela Oliver
Sociology, Asian American Studies

Shannon Sparks
School of Human Ecology, American Indian Studies

Brandi Grayson
Young Gifted & Black Coalition

MODERATOR:
Timothy Yu, Asian American Studies